What do I want to learn or understand better?

Since of last week the objective and project has become more clear. The communication has gone well and we are all on the same page which is an improvement since last week. Also my goal to understand the project and what we are supposed to do has also increased. What I would want to learn for the next week would be how to adapt the project from our personas point of view since it can maybe be a challenge where I might do what I think is best rather than the persona. Also I want to further learn about working as a team.

How can I help someone else, or the entire team, to learn something new?

For this week we have somewhat initiated github, also we have worked with user-stories and business model canvas. Many in our group were somewhat unsure how to work with git and some of us were more familiar. So this is something we have helped each other out with and will further do this later on when we start the project. Also some in out group had never worked with user-stories before. So this has also been a department where I feel very comfortable with helping with.

What is my contribution towards the team's use of Scrum? / What is my contribution towards the team's deliveries?

We have not yet started programming. However we have worked on the business model canvas and we have started making a lot of user-stories. Since I have been more comfortable with user-stories that is where I have put most of my energy. As I answered in the previous question we have helped each other out. We have also been working a lot together.
